Don't let Snow

So the snow has at last come in earnest and those who are quick about it may get a sleigh ride. Disagreeable as it is to the majority the snow has its good qualities.
It will put many a copper into the pockets of those who are out of work, and as for the lively stables—well, the more the snow the better the occasion for them.
The deeper the snow the larger their profits. Doctors, too, will be busy treating colds and the like and possibly broken legs. The first snow was on December 12, and the old saw says that there will be as many snow storms as the date on which the first one occurs. That snow went away in rain, and so will all the rest, according to the same saw. So hurry up and take your sleigh ride while the snow lasts.

The Herald Will Give Same Result

When the big department stores of Denver lately undertook to displace advertising rates to the newspapers there and sopped advertising in order to enforce their demands, the small stores took advantage of the boycott and began to advertise. They got immediate results, one house having to call for police to keep back the crowds, while the large places were practically empty. A little dry goods firm that had never been heard of before turned away a thousand people for want of room to receive them inside. The moral is obvious.

Oak Castle, N. H.

The regular meeting of Oak Castle council, K. G. G., held their regular meeting last evening and voted to attend the tenth anniversary of the Council of Lion council of Dover to be held in that city, Thursday evening, Feb. 10. The party will leave this city in a special train returning after the entertainment.

BABY'S SMOOTH, FAIR SKIN

A Grateful Mother Writes this Letter—

Tells all about Her Troubles when Baby Broke out with Scrofula Sores.

"At the age of two months, my baby began to have sores break out on his right cheek. We used all the external applications that we could think of, but of no avail. The sores spread all over one side of his face. We consulted a physician and tried his medicine, and in a week the sores were gone. But to my surprise in two weeks more another scrofulous looking sore appeared on baby's arm. It grew worse and worse, and when he was three months old, I began giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla. I also took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before the first bottle was finished, the sores were well and have never returned. He is now four years old, but he has never had any sign of those scrofulous sores since he was cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, for which I feel very grateful. My boy owes his good health and smooth, fair skin to this great medicine." Mrs. S. S. WILSON, Farmington,

What Man Can Do

The entertainment and social at the Middle street Baptist vestry last evening braced everything that was good.

lowing program will indicate:

morning off towards Cape Ann, headed this way.

for a tug to tow her to a coal port.

big season another summer is very encouraging.

Did it ever occur to you that the workingman who is obliged to get to work at 7 o'clock in the morning is not the one whom the city marshal is obliged to respond for not shoveling off his pavement?

The electric railroad people have extensively narrowed Pleasant street this week and had the narrowest places at its junction with Front street. The next bad place is in front of Newell's where from walk to walk it is only twenty feet.

All the Bird's Fault

While the big ball of the shoe operatives last week was a grand success and will be long remembered for its pleasant felicity by a greater portion of those in attendance, there is one couple who will hear it spoken of with many misgivings for it did the breaking of a pleasant friendship which had long since ripened into something strong.

The young lady in question had spent a greater portion of her spare time two weeks previous in preparing her costume for the ball and when she entered the grand march that evening, proudly leaving on the arm of her knight of the evening room, she was a vision of loveliness. Now know it better than he and throughout the evening, whether he was dancing in her set or not, his eyes were always turned in her direction.

Shortly before intermission an aid tendon led her on the shoulder and said she was wanted in an ante room. She obeyed the summons and was told that a friend had been taken suddenly ill. Of course she must go to her aid and after instructing the aid to tell C.—where she had gone and for him to follow at once, she departed with her messenger.

The illness of her friend proved very trifling and after seeing that she was comfortable, the young lady returned to the ball room. Where was C.—and why had he not followed her as she had requested? ran through her mind as she climbed the stairs of the main entrance.
At the door she happened to meet a young man of whom C.—was jealous and they entered the ball room together. C.— was there and as his eyes rested on the couple who had just entered, his heart was torn with the pangs of jealousy. He imagined she had been out to supper with him and promptly set about to show her that he did not care. He danced every dance and did not go near her throughout the entire evening, allowing her to go home alone. She was too put out because he had not come for her to ask her what the trouble was and imagined that he did not care.

Now they don't speak, but go moping about the great factory, both of them miserable, and all because that aid forgot to deliver the message she left for C.—

Street Surveyor Shannon and a large gang of men were employed all day yesterday in cleaning the sidewalks of the heavy fall of snow. When they finished last night the sidewalks were never in better condition.

The work on the new house of Frank

The electric car accommodations have

This condition is highly gratifying to the other principal feature will be the match race between Walter Sanger of Mione-apolis and the champion Lehr, best two in three heats of a mile. This race will be unspaced and of course will be exceedingly interesting. Sanger holds the best unfor the same distances in Germany. Another important feature will be the trick

ELUCIDATING ENGLISH.

he Gross Misuse of the Nominative Case of Pronouns.

"There is a very common mistake in English which is always still more common when it does not fill me with vexation," said the author of the book, "I do not like to speak general discourse on the use of the language because I do not feel safe and one's reason in such a case is so like to be a ridiculous example of the thing complained of. But this mistake is so gross and palpable that any one with an elementary knowledge of grammar should recognize it. The thing which makes it peculiarly sad or vexatious is the fact that the error is often made by persons who make a fine pretense of using good English. Had a 75 per cent of the school teachers I will venture to say, make this mistake. It is the use of such expressions as 'Between you and I,' 'They asked you and I to come,' 'Let you and I go,' or more horrible still. They saw he and I up town.' 'He and I'—the use of the nominative to form the pronoun as the object of a preposition or a verb.

"The reason for this is obvious. It is known that ignorant persons use such expressions as 'Him and me went up town' or 'You and me were seen.' People learning that such expressions are wrong, instead of getting the notion that it is incorrect to use such a form as 'You and me,' or 'Him and I,' or 'Them and me,' they feel guilty when they are caught using such a combination of words, and declare that they are going to be better. They asked him and me to come to the dinner, which all are correct, they would have a sense that an error had been made. They get to feel that the correction and have a kind of double action control governing themselves as at each end. A little reflection would remind them that this word has nothing at all to do with the cases.

"A sure cure for this bad habit is to drop the 'and' and use each of the pronouns alone. What person, for instance, who would say 'They asked you and I to come' would also say 'They asked I to come,' or what person who would without hesitation say 'Let you and I go' could ever be caught saying 'Let I go?' Many of the people who use you and I as the subject of a sentence, use it as for a subject. They asked

Big Schooner Grounds.

The big four masted schooner, Frank A. Palmer, went ashore at Point Pease and beached—this noon, while being towed below by the tug Howell.

The Palmer finished discharging her cargo of 3190 tons of coal and left the wharf about twelve o'clock. The tide was running up strong at the time, being about two thirds full. Everything went along all right until they reached the Narrows, when they met a small fisherman coming up under full sail. At a glance Captain Hoyt, of the Howell, saw danger ahead, and it was either cut the fisherman down or else hug the New Hampshire shore and run the risk of going ashore. He chose the latter, and heading straight for the treacherous point he rang the bell to go ahead at full speed.

The fisherman glided by all safe and sound, but the strong tide struck the big craft with full force, and she grounded on the point. She swung slowly round and came very near going through the second Newcastle bridge. The tug pulled and snorted a d soon had her off from her dangerous position. The sails were then set, and with the help of a stiff northwest wind, she was towed safely down past Port Point to sea.

The last seen of her she was way off by Cape Ann with all sails set and making great time. She is bound for Newport News to load coal for Boston.

Under New Management

The New Marlboro house opened its doors for public patronage yesterday under its new management, Messrs. Charles Webb and Walter Campbell, who have had the house entirely renovated and newly furnished.

In response to invitations sent out, about one hundred of their friends gathered there last evening and partook of a most elaborate supper, the following being the menu:

Ox-tail Soup.
Roast Turkey, Cranberry Sauce.
Roast Stuffed Duck, Currant Jelly.
Roast Sirloin of Venison.
Chicken Salad.
Escalloped Oysters.
Celery. Olives. Pickles.
Mashed and Plain Potatoes.
Sweet Potatoes. Squash. String Beans.
English Plum Pudding, Brandy Sauce.
Snow Pudding.
Mince Pie. Apple Pie.
Whipped Cream Pie.
Assorted Cake.
Bananas. Oranges. Grapes.
Coffee. Cocoa. Tea.

The tables were beautifully decorated with cut flowers, ferns, etc., and the supper one of the best ever served in this city. The managers need feel proud of the success they achieved in their opening night and they deserve, and no doubt will receive, the patronage of the general public.

Recovered a Watch.

Mr. Frank Marston returned from Springfield last evening, where he went in hopes to get back more of the jewelry that was stolen from his house by the Kelley's. The only article he found among the lot that belonged to him was his son's gold watch. There are still a gold chain, several rings and a diamond stud that have not been recovered. It is now thought that these articles have been disposed of and will never be recovered. Mr. Marston thinks himself very lucky to get back what he did.
